

in the world. The sense of isolation is perfectly splendid, but you can still flirt with the bright lights and big cities. The beach and main coastal road are just ten minutes away from this sheltered valley – Puerto Banús and Marbella just a few minutes down the road.

There's a choice of sea, golf, lake or mountain views – or perhaps all four. But remember buildings are few and far between, so a great deal of thought and effort goes into every villa, tailoring to the clients' own dreams but, if required, managing the project from start to finish, and beyond, with a whole raft of after-sales services – letting, laundry and landscaping to name but three. Or the client can take a more hands-on approach. Or even just sit on the land and wait for the value to increase. Just because the developers take a charmingly soft-nosed approach to profit, doesn't mean you can't make a bob or two.
